

SOCIETY NEWS, NOTES, AND GOSSIP OF THE PAST WEEK

The ballroom of the Willard Tuesday evening, January 21, promises to be a pronounced success socially as well as financially. The tickets are being sold rapidly and arrangements are nearing completion. Mrs. Rosalie Hollyday Bock is the chairman of the ball and executive committee, Miss Pauline Mastruder is chairman of the young ladies' committee, and Frank Martin, formerly of South Carolina, and Representative H. D. Flood of Virginia will be in charge of the floor.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Washington Aerie, No. 125, has issued cards for their second New Year Eve dance in the hall at Sixth and E streets, Tuesday evening, December 31. Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

One heard everywhere during the Christmas festivities, words of deepest sympathy for Mme. Hauge, whose husband, the late minister to this country from Norway, perished from overexertion while traveling over a country road on snow shoes. They had gone to Norway, hoping to attract Mme. Hauge's mind from the sorrow caused by the recent death of her only son, and while the scenes dear to her husband were making momentary forgetfulness for her the even greater sorrow came.

Mme. Hauge as a girl was Louise G. Todd, of Iulstville, Ky., and a great belle. She married a Mr. Joy, a man of great wealth. Three months following the wedding Mr. Joy died and left his fortune to his young widow and his posthumous child, who died at Newport last summer. Mme. Hauge lived single for a number of years, devoting her time and attention to her son, and it was his fondness for Mr. Hauge that more than anything else next to her own affection, led the handsome Kentucky widow to marry the diplomat.

A delightful surprise was given Mrs. E. McAleer, worthy matron of Ruth Chapter, by the other officers at her home Friday. Mrs. McAleer was presented with a handsome cut glass bowl. Mrs. E. Zimmerman presented the bowl.

The officers attending were Past Matron Mrs. E. Schneider, Mrs. D. V. Pitt, Mrs. E. G. Coumbe, Mrs. C. Hughes, Mrs. L. Phillips, Miss M. Lamond, Miss I. Gould, Mrs. C. Hall, Mrs. L. Zimmerman, Mrs. A. Jones, Miss K. Thom, Mrs. Shawcross, Mrs. L. Raymann, and Mrs. Jackson.

The guests of honor were Past Matron Mrs. A. Shaefer, Mrs. E. Hazen, Philip Shaefer, William McAleer, and Dorothy Pitt. Refreshments were served.

Col. and Mrs. William Youngblood gave a delightful dance at their home, 1700 P street, Christmas night for their daughter, Miss Frances Youngblood. The decorations were the customary evergreens of the season and army and navy flags.

The striking uniforms of the two academies with the beautiful gowns of the young girls made a charming picture. The guests were Cadets E. B. Bristow, Besse, Muir, Allan, Adams, Stewart, Penfield, Samson, Cook, Miss Muir, Miss Owens, Miss Watson, Miss Smith, Miss Wolf, Miss Parker, and Miss Youngblood.

The Georgetown Cotillon Club gave its first dance at Lintinich Hall Thursday evening, under the direction of William Finney and Harold Godwin. About seventy-five couples were present.

Many of them having been members of the old Junior Assemblies, now the Georgetown Cotillon. There were also guests from Manassas, Fairfax, and Alexandria. Va. The reception committee consisted of William Wagman, Ernest Mechlin, Harry Finney, and Basil Boteler.

The chaperones were Mrs. Owen Thompson, Mrs. A. H. Semmes, and Miss Finney. The Cotillon was led by John Davies, of Manassas. The Georgetown Cotillon Club will give two more dances this season.

Maj. and Mrs. Tyree Rivers and little daughter are visiting friends and relatives at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Maj. Edward A. Miller, accompanied by Mrs. Miller and their little daughter from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, are visiting friends here. They expect to be in Washington about a month.

Miss Ruth Yontz, of Harrisburg, Pa., is spending the holidays with Miss Nellie Niess, 61 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The Epworth League of Douglas M. Z. Church was entertained last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Rudy, 312 Seventh street northeast. There were ninety-six guests. The evening was spent with music and games, after which refreshments were served.

Prizes were given, Randall Herman receiving first prize, and Albert Pike the second.

Prof. and Mrs. George L. Raymond and Miss Raymond will be at home Fridays in January.

Kentucky Beauty Waits While Fiance Battles In Hospital for Health

MISS EVELYN LEE FITZHUGH AND HILARY H. HERBERT. Young Couple Whose Wedding Has Been Postponed Because of the Illness of the Bridegroom-to-Be.

Wedding of Herbert and Miss Fitzhugh Indefinitely Postponed.

Loyalty to his country in the time of its greatest need has compelled the postponement of the marriage of former Lieut. Hilary H. Herbert, of the United States Marine Corps, and Miss Evelyn Lee Fitzhugh, one of the most beautiful girls in Kentucky. Mr. Herbert is very ill in a hospital in Mobile, Ala., as the result of severe organic trouble which he developed during his service in the Philippines at the time of the Spanish-American War.

Interest in the romance concerning these two popular young people has been wide. It has extended from the picturesque home of the bride-elect in Lexington, Ky., to Washington, where the families of both are so widely known, and beyond.

Both of Fine Stock. Miss Fitzhugh is a member of the Fitzhugh and Lee families whose names are indelibly stamped on the pages of the country's history. She is an extremely beautiful girl with brown hair and eyes and the fair complexion that characterizes the daughters of the Blue Grass State. She is athletic and like all women of the South, and particularly of her native State, she is a lover of horses and spends much of her time galloping through the picturesque country about her father's home. Miss Fitzhugh is the daughter of Capt. R. H. Fitzhugh, an officer on the staff of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Mr. Herbert is a son of former Secretary of the Navy Hilary H. Herbert, whose family was for so many years identified with official life in Washington.

While no date has been set for the marriage of these two young people, it was understood that the ceremony would be performed some time this winter. The romance only began during the official season in Washington last year, when Miss Fitzhugh was here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Daisy Fitzhugh Ayres, but it has progressed most interestingly, and when the young officer was ordered away from Washington shortly afterward on account of his health, he went immediately to the home city of the beautiful young girl who had won his heart.

Ride Together. They spent many happy hours together horseback riding through the country, but almost as soon as Mr. Herbert returned to Washington his health again failed and he was on his way South when he became so ill that he was compelled to go to a hospital in Mobile, where he is at the present time.

The wedding has been indefinitely postponed because of Mr. Herbert's health, but in the meantime the young Kentucky girl is going straight ahead with preparations for the wedding and is spending her days making up a fascinating trousseau.

The date of the marriage depends entirely upon the condition of Mr. Herbert's health, and should he improve materially during the next few months, there is every indication that the romance will yet see a happy conclusion before the current season ends.

formally to their friends every Thursday from 4 to 6.

Miss Della Fishel was hostess Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Laura Adler, of Pittsburgh, who is the house guest of Congressman and Mrs. Bachfield, of the Connecticut. The evening was devoted to music and recitations and later a delightful lunch was served, with the prevailing Christmas decorations.

The guests were Miss Adler, Miss Helena Bachfield, Miss Miriam Meyer, New York; Miss Mildred Morris, Miss Beila Hirsch, Miss Sadie Silver, Miss Harris, Virginia; Miss Hortense Morris, Miss Felene D. Engel, Mr. and Mrs. Murr E. Kahn, Mrs. Joseph Abel, and Elmer Bachfield, Princeton; Miss Baer, Maurice Seheimer, M. M. Burnstein, A. Bendicks, and Samuel Finkelstein.

Creed Fulton entertained at his home at the Burlington last evening in honor of his son, Creed Fulton, Jr., who is home from Cornell for the holidays.

Ten young men of this city gave a theater party and supper last evening in honor of their out-of-town friends. Those present were Miss Adele Hamerslaw, Trinka, Col.; Miss Rose Frank, Miss Florine Kahn, Baltimore; Miss Sadie Weissel, Norfolk; Miss Irma Strass, Miss Leona Spear, Miss Justine Keller, Baltimore; Miss Margaret Kaufman, Miss Celeste Goodman, and Miss Rhoda Mautner and Melvin Mann, Baltimore; David Baer, Herbert Rich, Lester Marx, Bernard Baer, Melvin King, Joseph Kaufman, Stanley Fischer, Milton Goldsmith, and Arthur Luchs.

The Senators of Cornell University gave an informal affair at the Shoreham Hotel Friday evening. The hall was beautifully decorated in flags of the university society. After the dance, a banquet was served.

One of the delightful dinners of the week was the one given by Mrs. Albert Sigmund, of the Ashley, Wednesday. Those present were Mrs. Charles Kaufman, Mrs. Addie Sigmund, Mrs. F. K. Levi, Harold Kaufman, Howard Sigmund, and Edgar Kaufman.

Miss Edith Elizabeth Franzoni, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Franzoni, and granddaughter of Carlos Franzoni, the sculptor, was married to Dr. Wilson Prestiman Malone, of Virginia, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in her home, 68 Massachusetts avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Father George A. Dougherty, secretary to the president of the Catholic University. The decorations were Christmas decorations, principally holly.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a handsome gown of hand embroidered mousseline over silk, made princess, and a tulle veil caught up with natural orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white violets.

Dr. and Mrs. Malone left later for Atlantic City. Their home will be in Washington after February 1.

The bride's traveling gown was a black broadcloth, and she wore a black beaver picture hat trimmed with white plumes and a set of Persian lamb furs. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. R. Farr, sister of the bridegroom, of Fairfax, Va., and her sons and daughters; Miss Louise Brandon, niece of the bridegroom, of Fairfax, Va., and James Malone, brother of the bridegroom, of New York city.

Mrs. Franzoni, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black lace over white silk, made princess style. Miss Catherine Franzoni, the bride's sister, wore a pink silk dress trimmed with pink lace, princess style.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kenney, of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., announce the marriage of their daughter, Beulah Lew Kenney, and Lieut. Stanley G. Zinke, Medical Corps, Wednesday, December 18.

Miss Alice Frederica Wesson will be married to Passed Assistant Paymaster Stewart Earle Barber, U. S. N., December 31, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Russell Handley, 62 East Seventy-third street, New York, at 3:30 o'clock. Bishop Frederic Courtenay will officiate. Miss Wesson will be given in marriage by her mother and will have no attendants. Paymaster Jackson, U. S. N., will be the best man.

A small reception, to which intimate friends and relatives are invited, will follow the ceremony. Mr. Barber and his bride will sail January 4 for Europe to spend their honeymoon in Paris, where they will stay for several months.

Paymaster Barber has recently returned from Cavite, Manila, where he has been stationed. Mrs. Wesson and her daughter, who spent the last three years in Europe, returned to America about three weeks ago. While abroad they visited Japan and the Philippines. Miss Wesson is a great-granddaughter of the late Bishop Littlejohn, of Long Island.

Leo Moskowitz and Miss Edna Simpson, both of Washington, were married at the home of the bride's parents Christmas Day. The ceremony was very simple and quiet, owing to the recent death of a member of the family.

Mrs. Moskowitz is an accomplished musician and has a host of friends. Mr. Moskowitz is a city salesman for the Dunbar Cigar Company, and was formerly identified with both the United Cigar and the American Tobacco companies.

The couple will be at home to their friends at once at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Maude Elizabeth MacDonald was married to Lieut. Ralph Waldo Dempf, United States Revenue Cutter Service, December 19, 1907, at York, Pa. Miss MacDonald is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacDonald. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David S. Currie, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of York, and took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kurrie, of whom the bride is a niece. The bridal party entered the drawing-room which was tastefully decorated with the national colors and palms and Southern amilax, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Hannah Frick. The bride, who wore a beautiful French gown, elaborately trimmed with lace, was given away by her brother, Roy MacDonald. She was preceded by little Miss Julia Kurrie, as flower girl.

The bridegroom was attended by his best man, Lieut. Frederick C. Billard, both in the evening dress uniforms of their rank. The ushers were Lieut. Leon C. Covell, United States Revenue Cutter Service; Edwin G. Dempf, William R. Dempf, H. Miller Rupp, and C. H. Dempf, Jr. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served.

After a brief wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and New York, Lieutenant and Mrs. Dempf will sail for San Juan, P. R., where the bridegroom is stationed on the revenue cutter Algonquin.

The engagement of Miss Agnes Barton Duer, daughter of Mrs. M. L. Duer, of Roslyn Hills, Md., and Ensign Frederick V. McNair, United States Navy, is announced.

THE SHOW. We boys had just a dandy show in Mr. Jones' shed: When Sammy asked him if we might, He didn't care he said. It was the greatest show on earth—Of course we called it that—We had two dogs, a one-eyed hen, And Mrs. Jones' cat.

We had a peachy gramophone. It played some lively tunes. And Tom and Sammy, all blacked up, Made two fun-dandy coons. The lion-tamer Grippe showed His lion (just a cat), And Bessie ate a paper snake—The folks all laughed at that.

The greatest acrobat on earth Turned handsprings on a bed; The folks all clapped when he got through. For that was great, they said. Bill Turner's dog sat up and begged. Then licked his master's hand. And then Bill made him lie down dead. They all thought that was grand.

The show was going lovely, too. When, quicker than a cat. One dog just grabbed that one-eyed hen. The other grabbed the cat; Then there was trouble all around. The crowd hiked out the door—Now, Mrs. Jones says when we play We can't come there no more. —Chicago Record-Herald.

New Yorkers Plan Gay Time Celebrating the New Year; Many Come to Washington

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—New Year, like Christmas Day, is a festival day the celebration of which is at its best in the country.

Places, such as those of Edwin D. Morgan, the Whitneys, the W. K. Vanderbilts, Mr. and Mrs. the Willets, the Ripleys, the Birds, the Bryces, the Goulds, the Veses, are the scene of gay parties, Alfred G. Vanderbilt has a number of men up at Sagamore Lodge, in the Adirondacks, including De Lauroy Kountze, William Spencer, William F. Whithouse, Jr., Bradish G. Johnson, and Robert Gerry. Mrs. Alfred has a party at Oakland Farm, her place near Newport, and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt have a house full of guests at Fanny Point. The George Vanderbilts have a whole host of people staying with them at Biltmore, including the Twombles and William A. Burdett; the Pembroke Joneses have two carloads of guests at Airle, their plantation in North Carolina, and of course there will be the usual New Year Eve ball and jollification at the club at Tuxedo the day after tomorrow. This is a regular Tuxedo institution, and one of the features of the dance is the extinction of all the lights when the clock begins to strike midnight, followed by the sudden restoration of the illumination with the opening minutes of the new year.

Many, too, will go to Washington tomorrow for the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of 1908. These are of a more or less official character and make up in stateliness what they lack in jollity. Chief among them, of course, is the reception given by the President at the White House New Year Day, at which the judges of the Supreme Court of the United States appear in their silken robes, the officers of the army and navy in their full dress uniforms, and the foreign diplomatic corps in all its picturesque and gold-embroidered toggery, to which an additional touch of color is imparted by the multicolored hues of the ribbons of the various orders of knighthood adorning many breasts.

The Roosevelts, being New York people, always ask a number of their New York relatives and friends to assist them in receiving on these occasions, and a place in the receiving line is quite as highly prized by the members of our Four Hundred at these White House state functions as is the right to remain in the throne room at the courts held at Buckingham Palace by Queen Alexandra and at the levees of King Edward at St. James' Palace in London during the season there.

Perhaps the best proof of the extent to which New Year is regarded as a seat rather than as a town house celebration is furnished by the fact that no entertainments of any marked note are scheduled for New Year Eve in the city, hostesses having found that most of the eligible men and most attractive girls will be away for the occasion. Mrs. J. Edgar Bull, with more courage than the rest, has cards out for a dance at Delmonico's on Wednesday for Miss Marion Bull; and on Friday evening Mrs. Alfred M. Hoyt gives a large dance at her house on Fifth avenue, by which time, however, many of the people will have returned from the country. Tomorrow night Mrs. Henry S. Glover will give a large dance for her daughter Harriet, one of the most attractive debutantes of the season, at the Hotel Gotham, where Charles H. Woodruff, Jr., will lead the cotillon, and on the same evening Mrs. William B. Anderton will also give a dance for her daughter, Miss Anderton, at her house on Madison avenue.

New York's social register for 1908, just issued, is exciting more than ordinary interest by the number of new admissions, and, above all, by the omissions. On the whole, the latter commend themselves to the Four Hundred, and the verdict of the secret tribunal that edits and revises the Social Register, a tribunal enveloped with quite as much mystery and power as the historic Council of Ten of the old-time Venetian republic, commends itself to our smartest set.

The Social Register is very charitable, it errs, if anything, on the side of inclusion, where the world of New York fashion is concerned. But it draws the line at certain points, and when these are overstepped the people in question are temporarily dropped, to be restored later on when they have manifested a desire to retrieve names and reputations.

HER STIPULATION. When a rosy-cheeked, good-natured Irish girl, fresh from the other side, recently sought employment in the service of a Germantown woman, the latter began anxiously to interrogate the girl as to her qualifications.

"Can you cook, Nora?" asked the lady, most earnestly. "Are you a good cook?"

"Yes, mum, I 'link so," responded the girl, naively, "if ye'll not try to help me."—Exchange.
